Yasir Masood, Deputy Director Media and Publications for Centre for Excellence for CPEC (the first think tank that works under Ministry of Planning and Development and Reform) and an academic with special focus on China and BRI shared his thoughts on positive aspects of CPEC as follows:

“There are two sorts of anti-CPEC narratives: internal and external. At our think tank one of the prime foci is to counter both the nativities as the external one works in tandem with the internal. India has played a key role in introducing and associating terms like ‘debt trap, colonization’ with CPEC.”
